For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspopsia or Indigestion, Hillous, Remittent and intermittent Fevers, Diseasen of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions or Sores cleanse it when you find it obstructed and singgish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure and the health of the system will follow.

railway as a lever with which to clear the treasury-benches will not besitate to make use of it at the polls. It will be remembered that the strongest point raised against the terms Canada was asked to pledge herself to the completion within ten years of a most gigantic work, the engineering practicability of which was still unascertained, that she was, in fact, asked to take 'a leap in the dark,' and that to the tune of something between one hundred and two hundred millions of dollars; and heoce it was that the amendment for delay in order that more definite and reliable data migh enable the House to reach a more in-telligent conclusion met with the larges measure of support Of course it was not a leap in the dark. The Government produced information, as to cost and practicability, which ought to have satisfied every honest enquirer after train; and it did satisfy all except a political party chiefly concurred to grasp the purse-strings. But the ob-jection was a plausible one-one which might carry weight with the people.
And we have already seen that the leaders of the Ontario Opposition have not been slow in going to the country with this false alarm. We have seen Mr Blake, by no means the most un-scrapulous of his party, telling the electors of West Durham that Sir Ceo E Carrier estimated the cost of the railway at one bundred and filty millions, and giving it as his own opinion that it would 'cost a great deal more.' How can the Government most effectually meet this ory, and defeat the object of its authors? Unquestionably by demonstrating at the earliest possible moment the groundlessness of the alarm; and that must be done by a thorough exploration and survey. If, by this means, the Government can domonstrate, by next session of the Dominion Parliament that there are no great engineering difficulties in the way of the railway and that the cost of its construction will not appreciably exceed $100,000,000, and that it can be built in such a way as not to involve the Dominion in any cousiderable financial obligations, the Opposition will not have a leg to stand on. And there is no reason to doubt that a thorough nivey will establish all these points. There are other and higher reason-, however, for haste in this matter -great patriotic reasons of state, the same reasors in fact, which impelled the Govern ment forward and closed their ears against every appeal for delay-the self me reasons which caused the gallant Knight of Quebec to shout 'All abour for the West I' when rallying his followers in the House of Commons to the last final division on the Terms. In short, every consideration of self-preservation, every reason of state policy would appear to point to the necessity of ex route as will at once stop the mouths of the Ontario Opposition and serve as a bas s for capitalists to act upon. And it is a noteworthy circumstance that the organs of the Ontario Opposition have already begun to taunt tie Government for the tardi-ness of its movements in prosecuting the survey for the Railway. In view of all the circumstances and all the information which is reaching us through private channels, as well as through the public press, there is no reason to doubt that every effort will be made to accomplish the survey during the present season; and we are only surprised that the organization of a surveying party to commence at the Pacific has not already

Where and What is It? In the course of his very interesting lecture on Canada, delivered at Paisley, Scotland, a short time ago, Colonel Shaw illustrated the short time ago, Colonel Shaw illustrated the ignorance which pervades the home mind respecting Canada, by narrating the following incident:—Some years ago, when over in Scotland from Canada, he was visiting an elderly lady and gentleman, and in the conversation the lady somewhat astonished him by saying—'Ay, an' ye'll be a Yankee, then?' Her husband, seeing there was evidently something wrong about it, struck in with, 'Tut, woman, he's no a Yankee; he's frae Canada, awa down by New Orleans, ye ken.' Colonel Shaw's case is by no means an isolated one: neither is Canada the only country erroneously thought to be 'awa down by New Orleans.' We are led to believe by what reaches us almost every day that, with a few solitary exceptions, the most profound ignorance respecting the character and geographical position of British Colombia pervades both the home and the colonial mind. Doubtless one effect of the recent debates in the Canadian Bulling Belling and the colonial mind. one effect of the recent debates in the Canadian Parliament and consequent discussion in the public press has been to bring this Colony into more prominent notice and in some degree enlighten the public mind as to what and where British Columbia is; but no one can have read the speeches made in the Parliament or the articles published in the newspapers without being struck by the ignorance papers without being struck by the ignorance which prevails on all hand respecting British which prevails on all hand respecting British Columbia. Now, this is a condition extremely unfavorable to the prosperity of the Pacific Province. Few persons emigrate to a new and distant country out of curiosity to ascertain what and where it is. People emigrate with a view to bettering their condition, and it is essential that a country seeking population should make itself known. The supreme want of this Colony is population; and the very first step towards supplying that great want consists in making the country properly know in those centres of population from which it may reasonably be expected to draw a supply. Surely this step cannot be taken too soon.
